Network Waste Solutions wins Rainbow International's waste management contract

Damage Management company Rainbow International, has joined forces with Network Waste Solutions to utilise its cutting-edge waste management services for all Rainbow branches throughout the UK.

Rainbow International is the UK's leading supplier of Disaster Recovery and Specialist Cleaning Services. With over 100 branches working alongside major insurance companies, property maintenance and other commercial businesses throughout the UK, Rainbow's waste management requirements are very demanding, with around £4-million spent on waste disposal in the previous year.

Rainbow's head office needed to ensure that the company's waste disposal methods complied with current regulation. With every branch using the services of different waste companies throughout the UK, ensuring waste compliance and auditability throughout the group was logistically difficult. The risk of non-compliance could result in hefty fines for the company.

Trying to obtain information after completion of a waste collection job was also a lengthy exercise. Tracking down the company who carried out the waste collection in any given area would involve several phone calls between Rainbow's head office, its branches and the waste carrier.

It was also difficult to judge whether Rainbow was achieving value-for-money for the company, as waste disposal decisions were made by branch managers and staff. Some branches were paying far more for waste disposal than neighbouring branches, an issue which also needed to be addressed.

Network Waste Solutions was contacted, and now provides total waste management services throughout the entire Rainbow International business.

"Our customers and the market in general are asking for a consistent approach to the recording of recycling rates. Network Waste Solutions will give us a unique offering in the damage management arena and eradicate the business risk of non compliance" quoted Simon Ford from Rainbow International.

With access to hundreds of compliant waste carriers throughout the UK, Network Waste is able to guarantee that Rainbow's waste is handled legally, thereby reducing the risk of non-compliance. Costs are also standardised, and reduced in many cases, as Network Waste reduces transport costs by utilising the most local service providers for all branches.

Being a national waste management company, Network Waste offers Rainbow a single point of contact, via phone, fax or email, for all waste services throughout the UK – whether it's Northampton needing a skip delivery, or head office requiring waste transfer notes for a forthcoming audit.

Not only can Rainbow obtain waste information by contacting Network Waste directly, it also has access to Network Waste's innovative online system, TIM Online, which provides all the statistics and information that Rainbow requires, 24-hours a day. Accessing waste collections, spending, weights and audit documents for all Rainbow branches throughout the UK is now a breeze thanks to TIM Online.

"This is an excellent contract win for us and provides further evidence that our ability to offer total compliance and environmental solutions, spans across all business sectors", Mark Garwood, Sales Director for Network Waste Solutions quoted.
